Collins Engineers, Inc. is an ENR Top 500 Design Firm providing design and analysis services to the transportation, marine, and construction industries.

Founded in Chicago in 1979, Collins pioneered the use of engineer-divers in the evaluation of underwater structures. At the time, such a service was rare. As years passed, national and local facility owners began to appreciate the valuable knowledge gained by the hands-on assessments of Collins' engineer-divers. Today, underwater structural evaluations performed by engineer-divers are the preferred method of ensuring the integrity of underwater structures.

Throughout the years, Collins' insistence on gaining firsthand knowledge through site inspections, both above and below water, has provided unique insights into the needs of the nation's aging infrastructure, and brought in-depth understanding when authoring professional publications and assisting in the implementation of industry protocol.

Continually on the leading edge of standards and methodology, Collins provides engineering ingenuity and solutions to complex problems, and realistic, honest answers.
